New synthetic routes have been devised for the high yield preparation of protected 2'-O-allylribonucleoside- 3'-phosphoramidites, exemplified by the ribonucleosides guanosine and 2,6-diaminopurine riboside (2-aminoadenosine). Key features are the use of versatile intermediates and an easy allylation step. The development of a novel synthon based on 2'-O-allyl- 2,6-diaminopurine riboside enables short 2'-O-allyl oligoribonucleotide probes to be synthesized with adenine replaced by 2 ...
